EIGHT PERSONS REPORTED DEAD IN EXPLOSION NEAR ELDRED

VITAL PEAK CAPTURED BY U. S. CAVALRY

Troopers Fight Daylong Battle Against Blistering Gunfire to Erase Threat Against Taegu

PROVIDES FIRM ANCHOR

Tokyo, Sept. 12—(AP)—A U. S. First Cavalry Battalion captured a commanding peak eight miles north of Taegu tonight.

The troopers fought a daylong battle uphill against blistering Red Korean troops and blistering gunfire to erase a main Red threat against Taegu.

A. P. Correspondent Jack MacBeth, reporting from the front, said American casualties were heavy.

Allied warplanes and artillery rocketed, bombed and blasted the entrenched Koreans before the troopers' assault.

Then the foot cavalry stormed up the slopes. Red Koreans on the peak and on a nearby slope hurled blasts of artillery, mortar and machinegun fire at them.

The Americans drove two-thirds of the distance in the first five hours. Then they were pinned down most of the afternoon by Communist fire.

A regimental commander had described the Red Korean hill as "the main threat" to Taegu.

The capture gave American defenders a vital anchor on their right flank.

The Americans attacked first seven miles north of Taegu. General McArthur's headquarters said they gained nearly one mile and secured high ground commanding the vital Taegu-Tabu road.

Forty thousand Red Korean troops are massed north of the city for an expected fresh assault upon the Allied northwest front anchor. The dug-in hill force was a small Red advance party.

Communist artillery roared a thunderous barrage for the third straight day, plastering the Taegu-Tabu road. One American (Turn to Page Five)

Three Separate Agencies Are Investigating the Tragic Troop Train Wreck Taking 33 Lives

Coshocton, O., Sept. 12—(AP)—Three separate agencies launched investigations today into a tragic troop train wreck that claimed the lives of 33 persons—most believed to be soldiers.

And, less than 24 hours after the crash, a United States senator demanded a nationwide inquiry into railroad safety practices.

Their investigations center around Ohio's third worst train wreck, which also injured at least 50 persons.

Investigations were begun by the Pennsylvania Railroad, whose streamlined "Spirit of St. Louis" crashed into the troop train at near-by West Lafayette, the Ohio Military District, and the National Guard.

The investigators want to know why the streamliner passed flares and crashed into the stalled troop train.

Stunned Residents Of Wyoming Valley Arrange Funerals

Wilkes-Barre, Sept. 12—(AP)—Stunned residents of the Wyoming Valley prepared today to receive the bodies of 33 soldier relatives killed in an Ohio troop train wreck.

In a region where death sometimes is as close as the nearest hard coal mine, no underground disaster—no, not even any of the major battles of World War Two—cast a shadow over so many homes as yesterday's crash of a troop-laden train and a Pennsylvania Railroad express.

Besides those killed, 50 or more were injured—all but a few from the Wilkes-Barre area.

The tragedy struck scant hours after parents, wives, brothers and sisters, sweethearts and children had bid goodbye to the citizen-soldiers boarding the train for active duty with the army.

The wreck victims and their companions were members of Pennsylvania's 28th National Guard Division, recently inducted into federal service. They were bound for Camp Atterbury, Ind., to train and probable duty in Korea.

Over 200 Workers In Forty Factories In Warren and Forest at Safety Meet

Over 200 men employed in forty industries in Warren and Forest counties, along with a half dozen plant nurses attended the industrial safety conference held Monday evening at the YWCA with dinner at six o'clock.

The event was arranged by G. R. Ball, Youngstown, inspector for the Department of Labor and Industry, Harrisburg, in cooperation with representatives of local factories and organization, including N. W. Drake, C. C. Clem Wolstencroft, Struthers Wells Co.; Merritt Rohlin, Foremen's Club; David Levine, Jr., Penn Furnace Co.; Melburn Carlson, DeLuxe Metal Co.; Richard Schumacher, Sylvania, and Douglas Kropf, National Forge and Ordnance Co. Included in the attendance were representatives of both the police and fire departments.

The principal speaker during the evening was William H. Chestnut, Harrisburg, secretary of the Department of Labor & Industry. Others on the program were Ross R. Hill, Pittsburgh, supervisor of the southwestern district, R. L. Lefler, assistant to the president of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co., Pittsburgh; H. C. Branard, Titusville, supervisor of the northwestern district; Harry Brainard, Pittsburgh, head of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, and Judge Allison D. Wade, Warren.

The program followed the serving of a delicious Swiss steak dinner, preceded by invocations delivered by Dan Walton, general secretary of the Warren YMCA. Nat W. Drake acted as toastmaster. Burgess W. F. Crossett extended a brief welcome to the guests and others in attendance.

First introduced by the toastmaster was Mr. Hutchinson, who expressed appreciation on behalf of the visitors for the wonderful meeting. He thanked the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Wolstencroft, Mr. Ball and others for efforts put forth to make the conference a success. Mr. Hill upon being introduced spoke in a similar vein.

John G. Wade expressed the keynote of the evening's talks when he warned "that we must consider we are now engaged in a world wide contest to determine whether we can survive, and this contest may continue for many critical years, during which industrial production will be at a low level."

At the Atlantic service station, entry was made by breaking a pane out of a window and releasing the window lock. Cash totaling $19.50 was taken in addition (Turn to Page Five)

New Wage Contract For Sylvania Plants

Washington, Sept. 12—(AP)—The CIO Electrical Workers Union said today it had signed a contract with Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., providing wage increases and other benefits averaging 15 cents hourly for an estimated 8,000 workers.

A union announcement said the major provisions are a general 10-cent hourly wage boost and "extensive, company-paid" health and insurance benefits. Prior to the contract, the union said, the average hourly wage was $1.30 an hour.

The agreement applies to both production and skilled workers at five Sylvania plants in Salem, Mass., Williamsport and Warren, Pa., Huntington, W. Va., and Kew Gardens, N. Y.

Early Quits Post In The Defense Dept.

Washington, Sept. 12—(AP)—Stephen Early resigned today as deputy secretary of defense.

President Truman accepted the resignation, effective Sept. 30, saying he did so reluctantly.

The White House said Early has been trying to quit since he completed the one year of duty he agreed to serve when he accepted the appointment May, 1949. He is to return to his post as a vice president of Pullman, Inc.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross, who announced Early's action, declined again to comment on a report by a highly placed presidential adviser that Secretary of Defense Johnson is on his way out of the cabinet.

Johnson has been under fire in congress and elsewhere in connection with the Korean war situation.

Three Burglaries In Youngsville Are Being Investigated

Deputy Sheriff S. K. Secor and Private J. R. Kruepy, of the State Police, were called to Youngsville yesterday to investigate break-ins and robberies at three Youngsville business establishments over the weekend.

On Friday night, Mariner Brothers garage and the Youngsville Atlantic service station, both located on East Main street, were entered through windows. At Mariner Brothers, the burglars entered the rear of the building which houses the repair shop, but were unsuccessful in getting into the office. As far as could be learned, only a timing light was taken.

At the Atlantic service station, entry was made by breaking a pane out of a window and releasing the window lock. Cash totaling $19.50 was taken in addition (Turn to Page Five)

Colorful Career Of South African War Leader Ends

Johannesburg, South Africa, Sept. 12—(AP)—Jan Christian Smuts, spade-bearded South African leader in three wars and two world peace movements, died last night in his 81st year.

The end came as the cumulative result of pneumonia, influenza and heart strain after a back ailment forced him to bed May 28, four days after his 80th birthday.

From around the world, expressions of sympathy poured in to the family of the field marshal—twice prime minister of the union of South Africa, statesman, philosopher, counselor of kings and an organizer of both the League of Nations and the United Nations.

The messages reflected the ironic contrast in Smuts' varied career, which started with his leading commando raids against the British in the Boer war and ended with his being a bulwark of the British Commonwealth of Nations. It was Smuts who in 1917 first suggested a British Commonwealth as apart from the empire.

This, and British honors, helped earn him the resentment of some of his embittered, die-hard countrymen. Shattering political defeats in the past two years left their physical mark on "the boss," as Smuts once was known at home.

After becoming a lieutenant-general in the British army in World War I and campaigning against German East Africa forces, Smuts published a League of Nations plan. It led to his participation in the formation of that

Engineer Reports Benefits Would Not Justify Flood Control Work In Borough

BY FRANK J. TRAGLE
AP Special Washington Service
Washington, Sept. 12—(AP)—The Army engineer in charge of the Ohio River Division told Pennsylvania congressmen today that estimated benefits would not justify proposed flood control work at Warren, Pa.

His findings were mailed to Senator Myers (D) and Martin (R) of Pennsylvania, and Rep. Gavin, Oil City Republican, in whose district Warren is located.

Col. A. W. Pence, division engineer at Cincinnati, said the preliminary survey investigated the feasibility of providing flood control for Warren by means of such local construction as walls, dikes and channel improvement.

That work, urged by local interests, would be in place of a high dam on the Allegheny river about 10 miles upstream from Warren to which there has long been opposition.

"The investigation disclosed," Col. Pence wrote, "that the benefits which would result from provisions of local flood protection measures at Warren would not be commensurate with the cost of such work, even if construction of the Allegheny river flood control reservoir is deferred for a period greater than the probable life of the local protection works."

"Accordingly, based on the information now available, the reporting officers are unable to justify improvement of the locality or a detailed survey thereof at this time."

Those opposing the dam say it would block the river to future development as a barge route. The dam was first authorized by congress (Turn to Page Five)

National Powder Co. Plant In McKean County Is Scene Of Devastating Blast Early Today

Eldred, Sept. 12—(AP)—Eight persons were reported killed today in an explosion at the National Powder Company plant near here.

A terrific blast rocked the plant area two miles north of Eldred about 8:30 a. m. (EST). Eldred is located 18 miles east of Bradford.

Unofficially eight persons were reported killed and possibly five or 10 injured," reported a telephone official. "The eight were killed outright."

Said the official who declined to be named: "I was downtown when the explosion occurred. At first I thought the whole town blew up. Windows broke everywhere."

The blast shattered windows in houses two miles from the scene and was heard 10 miles away.

It occurred in one of the mix houses of the National Powder Company which makes nitroglycerine and dynamite.

Reported deaths were among employees of the company. The injured were being taken to hospitals at Bradford and Olean, N. Y.

T. T. Cook, secretary of the powder company, said the plant's mix house was demolished and several nearby buildings were damaged. He declined to estimate the amount of damage.

"We have no idea what caused the explosion," he said.

"We're still not sure just who was killed. The injured men were not hurt badly. They were treated at the plant for surface cuts by our plant doctor."

Big Three Envoys To Chart a Rapid Defense Program

New York, Sept. 12—(AP)—Foreign policy chiefs of the United States, Britain, and France, spurred to action by the threat of Russia's might, meet today to chart a rapid expansion of western Europe's defense forces. The arming of German military units is their most controversial problem.

Preliminary indications are that sharp differences of opinion exist among Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Secretary Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman over the German rearmament issue. But diplomats are optimistic that in the three-day round of conferences those will be largely ironed out.

Acheson and Schuman arrived yesterday from Washington and Paris. Bevin was due in from London today by ship.

The American secretary announced he would make "several concrete proposals" to the two foreign ministers for measures to strengthen the north Atlantic defense setup.

Schuman, who hailed President Truman's intention to send more American troops to Europe as a vital aid to western defense, said France also has a program for expanding its total military strength. But when questioned about German rearmament, he raised objections.

The French position, he said, is to give Germany the means "for internal security and to combat the fifth column."

Reports from London have strongly intimated that the British attitude is similar—it favors concentrating on development of a German police force adequate to suppress Communist internal uprisings but letting the western Allies develop their own power before undertaking to arm German units.

Northeast Units Are Greeted As Heroes

Camp Atterbury, Ind., Sept. 12—(AP)—Northeast Pennsylvania National Guardsmen who escaped injury in a train wreck at Coshocton, Ohio, yesterday, were greeted as heroes when they arrived at Camp Atterbury this morning.

Maj. Gen. Daniel Strickler, commanding general of the Keystone Division, flew back from the wreckage where 33 men in a troop train died in order to greet the survivors personally at their training camp.

"I would be willing to take this outfit into combat right now," Gen. Strickler told the weary troops, "on the basis of the way it reacted to emergency at Coshocton."

He added that too much could not be said for the way citizens of Coshocton went all out to help the soldiers.

Earlier arrivals at the camp had a hot meal ready for the wreck survivors—and made-up bunks that were even more welcome.

House Members Drive Ahead With Plans To Ram Profits Tax Into New Measure

Washington, Sept. 12—(AP)—Ignoring Speaker Rayburn's statement that it can't be done, a crew of house members drove ahead today with plans to ram an excess profits tax into the $4,508,000,000 general tax boosting bill.

"We're not licked yet," Rep. Eberhart (D-Pa.) told newsmen. "We will use every possible maneuver to put the house membership on record as to whether they want an immediate excess profits tax."

The battle threatened to delay the effective date for individual income tax increases, now set for Oct. 1.

Eberhart is leading the group that seeks to put a $6,000,000,000 a year levy on excess corporation profits into the pending tax bill. They propose a 95 per cent tax on any corporation's profits which exceed the 1946-49 average profits plus $10,000.

This would make the total tax increase provided by the bill $10,000,000,000 or more.

Eberhart and Rep. Young (D-Ohio) yesterday blocked efforts to speed final congressional action on (Turn to Page Five)

Decision Having Far-Reaching Effect On Oil Leases Handed Down By Court

Judge Allison D. Wade this morning handed down a decision which is expected to have a wide effect among holders of oil leases throughout the district. The case, heard before Judge Wade some time ago, was that of Allan J. Scilly and Dorothy M. Scilly vs. C. W. Bramer, and involves a lease of 112 acres of land in Sheffield township. The original lease was dated June 23, 1905.

On June 1, 1938, the term of the lease, originally for 20 years, was extended for so long as oil and gas were found in paying quantities on the property, and the other terms of the lease remained in full force and effect.

Among those terms was a provision that one well was to be drilled for each ten acres of land within a stated period of time. One well was drilled, and no further drilling operations took place.

On October 11, 1948, the plaintiffs served notice on Mr. Bramer to fulfill the terms of the lease or forfeit. Mr. Bramer refused to do further drilling on the property.

Counsel for Bramer claimed that (Turn to Page Five)

May Be Months Before Consumers Are Hit Anywhere But in the Pocketbook

Washington, Sept. 12—(AP)—The first cautious steps to rearm America indicated today it may be months before consumers are hit anywhere but in the pocketbook.

Curbs on installment buying to go into effect next Monday. Higher income taxes probably will start taking a bigger bite out of pay checks Oct. 1. There were signs the wartime lack of some goods would not be duplicated, at least not soon.

In the steel industry, which supplies material for cars, refrigerators, construction, television, etc., the initial government move was toward easing the pinch of President Truman's projected $30,000,000,000-a-year arms program.

The government asked the industry to figure out just how much it can expand production capacity, which has just passed the 100,000,000-ton-a-year mark and is at the highest point in history. Industry promised a prompt answer.

Officers of 21 steel companies, big and little, met at the Commerce Department yesterday with Secretary Sawyer and William H. Harrison. On leave from the presidency of International Telephone and Telegraph Co., Harrison had just been sworn in as boss of the new National Production Authority (NPA). The president set up NPA in the Commerce Department to help boost the output of guns, planes and tanks.

A dozen executives of copper companies were called for a similar conference today. Other meetings are on tap with spokesmen for aluminum and other industries.

Mercer Dairymen Demand Milk Hikes

Sharon, Sept. 12—(AP)—Unless dealers obey State Milk Control Commission orders to raise milk to 20 and 21 cents a quart, dairy farmers of the Sharon area say they'll set up their own retail store and sell milk for 50 cents a gallon.

Mercer county chapter, Key-tone Milk Producers Association—representing 400 producers—said with their own store farmers can "give consumers a real bargain and still double our own income in many cases."

"The dealers are selling at the old price of 19 cents a quart. The commission recently ordered the price raised to 20 cents in stores and 21 cents for home delivery."

The producers say they'll be forced to take a cut of 57 cents per hundred pounds for class 1 milk if the 10-cent price continues in effect.

Everyone needs
GOOD LIGHTING

REDDY'S RULES
for
BETTER LIGHTING

- Keep reflector bowls, fixtures and bulbs clean.
- Use right size bulbs to give enough light for visual tasks.
- Avoid harmful glare by shading bulbs and using Certified lamps.

for health, for happiness

Good lighting helps to make a house a happier home. It plays up the beauty and good taste of your furnishings. But good lighting is not just for cheer. It is a necessity in preventing eye strain, nervousness and fatigue. So much depends on your eyes... you should care for them well, for they have to last a lifetime.

The cost of good lighting is small. It's a comfort and convenience... a protection and an economy... that every family can afford.

With the coming of longer evenings, make every room a better "living room". Make housework and homework easier... make social evenings more enjoyable. Just follow Reddy's simple rules for better lighting.

Warehouse Man

"Hughie" Major's job is to check shipments of wire rope leaving his company's warehouse in Williamsport, Pa. A substantial quantity of this rope goes to Bell Telephone... to be used, among other purposes, for supporting telephone poles.

We can't tell you how many Pennsylvania men and women, like Hugh Major, depend in part on Bell Telephone purchases for their work and wages. But we do know that last year alone Bell Telephone made purchases from some 2,000 companies in more than 200 Pennsylvania communities.

Any way you look at it, the successful operation of the telephone business means a great deal to the steady employment of a great many Pennsylvanians, both in and out of the telephone industry.

morning. Further details will be found in advertisements appearing later in the week... Eleven men from Sheffield are at Camp Atterbury with Kane units of the 28th Infantry Division. Seven are with Headquarters Company and ten with Company M... The young waitresses who served dinner last evening at the YWCA to approximately 200 persons attending the Safety Conference should be given credit for doing an excellent job in surprisingly fast time. It was just about an hour from the time the first course was served until the dishes were cleared away for the start of the speechmaking... Veteran Warren bowlers will be interested in an item that appeared in the Bradford Era last week which states that Joe Young, former champion of that city, is still uncertain about his bowling status pending a full test of the leg that was under the knife recently. Joe has competed against local kiegiers many times, in both Warren and Bradford... Merchants In Area

Bilked By Simple
Bogus Operations

Additional information regarding the operations of the bogus check artists who have been operating in the area in the past several weeks is contained in the following article from the DuBois
Courier Express:

Police of DuBois and half a dozen other Pennsylvania towns today were on the lookout for a pair of smooth individuals who have bilked merchants out of thousands of dollars by a simple bogus check method. At least one thousand dollars had been lost by DuBois merchants and it is possible that the amount will increase.

The strangers, gifted with high pressure salesmanship are selling for face value bogus checks for $99.80 drawn on the Beyers Construction Co., of Warren, in favor of George W. Rogers. The checks are all alike and have been tendered in payment for gasoline, clothing, meat, or whatever the merchant has to sell.

At one local store the strangers appeared and bought two suits, paying for them with cash. Two days later they returned, made some more purchases and tendered the phoney check that was accepted with surprisingly little doubt by the unsuspecting merchant. At a butcher shop a few pounds of cold cuts were bought by the pair "on our way to our camp," paid for with a bad check and the change received without question.

Usually the pair work on Saturday afternoons, after banks are closed, and in DuBois they are known to have cashed five of the phoney checks in one afternoon.
Since the bad checks were reported to local police, similar reports have been received of four checks at Meadville, two at Franklin, two at Oil City, and it is likely that there are others as yet unheard of.

Police said the pair are professionals, using typewritten, safety checks, and are getting away with their game only because merchants are not taking the elementary precautions to protect themselves.

Many Interesting Grange Exhibits At Youngsville Fair

Youngsville, Sept. 11 — Much county interest shown in the Youngsville Community Fair was evidenced by the fact that five different Granges brought interesting exhibits.

First place went to Mountain
Grange, in the vicinity of Tidoute.
This display was of a kitchen well equipped and spread on the table was a fine display of baked goods.
Second place went to Eldred Grange which pictured an outdoor farm scene with the inscription, "Beware, Farmers at Work."
The sign was appropriate as the farm work was being done in dangerous ways. The little children were riding the tractor, and a man was trimming his tree and sitting on the limb he was cutting off, etc. Warren had third place with an antique room; East Branch placed fourth with an exhibit of trees and articles; and Youngsville, fifth, with a modern deep freeze.

However, all the Granges exhibiting received substantial prizes as follows: 1st, $40.00; 2nd, $35.00; 3rd, $30.00; 4th, $25.00 and 5th, $20.00.

The Garden Club exhibits were unique, being a flower arrangement around a theme. Broken-straw Garden Club of Youngsville, placed first, with "Hat Shop." All hats were trimmed with garden flowers and each flower had a concealed container of water so the flowers did not wilt. Second place went to Pittsfield, with a very pretty garden scene, a pond in which gold fish were swimming and were surrounded by shrubs and plants. Tidoute had a good exhibit of a sick lad's bedroom and various flower combinations sent to cheer him. Prizes of $20, $15 and $10 were awarded.

Rural school exhibits gave Irvine first place.

The Forestry Department had an interesting exhibit, warning against fire hazards, and a small continuous moving picture, speaking plainly of the part the forest plays in supplying the land with water.

The agricultural display showed very fine potatoes, tall corn and all the vegetables that give promise of good eating for the Service to Humanity

During the past few years, more than any other time in our history, have we felt the need for our doctors. Those in the armed services were charged with the lives of our men and their return in the best health possible. Those doctors at home, often working long overtime hours, were exposed to many equally great dangers.

The relief of human suffering was the unselfish task of overworked doctors around the globe. Nor is that time past. Today it is just as important that we save our family physician's time. We should go to him early —at the first sign of illness. We should keep our appointments promptly. We should follow his advice.

His advice (usually his orders) in the form of prescriptions requires care and long experience in the correct compounding of the finest drugs. We ask that you trust them to us.

THOSE ECONOMIC CONTROLS

In the opinion of James Marlow, Associated Press feature writer in Washington, you can't guess—from what President Truman said in his Saturday night talk—how far this country is going in re-arming or in using economic controls.

Probably he doesn't know himself. If relations with Russia get worse, then the government will step up re-arming and impose a lot tougher controls than seem to be in sight now.

But the president didn't have the power to control prices and wages until congress passed a bill giving him that power. And this was done so recently that he didn't sign the bill into law until last week.

And even now, with that power in hand, the president could hardly slap on nationwide price and wage controls without causing chaos. You can imagine why.

There is no government agency in existence—like the old OPA—to handle the gigantic problems that would be created overnight if Mr. Truman suddenly ordered price and wage controls.

But in his week-end talk he announced he was creating a successor to OPA, to be called the Economic Stabilization Agency (ESA), a brand new government agency.

But even the ESA will have to get a staff together, study the whole national field of business and labor, and make a million preparations before there can be any wide-spread price-wage controls.

All that will take time. Therefore, any such wide-spread controls seem impossible until the ESA is well established, and ready. Of course, in thinking of ESA, this thought comes first to mind:

If the controls come, will all prices and wages suddenly be controlled at one time or will the president just slap the controls on, say, only some one industry whose prices get out of line?

The president himself doesn't seem sure of the answer to that one. In his talk, he made it plain he's puzzled about what the new law will let him do.

So far only restriction ordered by the government under the new law to keep the country's economic wagon rolling down a straight road is on installment buying: To make people put up larger down-payments and pay up in full in less time.

The idea there is, by making installment buying a little tougher, to discourage buying somewhat, particularly in fields where goods may be scarcer. It's hoped this will put a brake on rising prices.

As for the other controls, the president's attitude seems to be:

"It's up to the people whether we have price and wage controls. If businessmen get greedy and start jacking up prices unnecessarily, or if labor makes unjust demands for higher wages and in that way forces up prices, controls will be needed."

The president didn't say anything about rationing. But under the new law the government can order rationing on anything whenever it gets scarce and people scramble for it.

FLOOD CONTROL SIDETRACKED

Any hopes that Warren would receive federal aid for flood control work in the river at this point seem to be shattered by a dispatch from Washington stating that the Army engineer in charge of the Ohio River Division has informed representatives from the district that estimated benefits derived from the project would not justify the expenditure. Considerable stress seems to be laid in the report on the differences existing locally pertaining to the proposed Kinzua dam first authorized by Congress in 1936.

It is interesting to note that the report concludes "the proposed Kinzua dam would provide essentially complete flood protection for the borough against floods appreciably larger than those of record, and a high degree of protection against possible greater floods."

The attention of those interested is called to a statement in the dispatch which says that persons may express their views on the report of Col. A. W. Pence up to October 20, to the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors in Washington.

A month ago, when May E. Tupper of Richmond, Va., called her local newspaper to place a want ad, the ad-taker gasped. Miss Tucker was offering to board African violets. The ad-taker never had heard of such a thing. For lack of any better classification, she stuck the ad under "Seeds and Trees." It brought results according to Pathfinder news magazine. Last week, in her home at 1901 Fifth avenue, Miss Tupper was tending violets for two customers and, judging from telephone inquiries, soon would be tending more.

Here And There

The premium book and program for the 19th annual Sugar Grove Community Fair, under the joint direction of the Sugar Grove Joint Vocational School and Community Fair Association, to be held September 14 through 16, being distributed, provides some interesting information regarding plans for the event. Highlights of the Thursday program besides the placing of exhibits will be a firemen's water battle at seven o'clock followed by a Magician's show at eight. On the latter will appear "Elmer the Great," outstanding entertainer with a variety of sleight-of-hand and hocus-pokus stunts. Friday there will be the judging along with a tractor pulling contest in the afternoon, followed by the grand parade at 7:30 in the evening, sponsored by the Sugar Grove Volunteer Department, American Legion and Community Fair Association. Two performances of the Variety show are scheduled for that evening, at 8:15 and 9:45 o'clock. This program will feature the Allegheny Mountain Boys. Competition in the show will be limited to school students including the 1950 graduates and an interesting entertainment is promised. Saturday there will be judging of swine and sheep, with a steer show at eleven a. m., followed by horse show and rodeo at one. Gus Burgett, of Edinboro, will be judge for the show, Delmar Mickelson, Sugar Grove, ringmaster, and King Randall, of Albion, announcer. Music will be by the Westernaires, of James-town. There are fifteen events on the horse show program, including the opening grand parade. From past experiences we can recommend the Sugar Grove Fair as a worthwhile attraction.

The Pennsylvania Bankers Association has announced it will combine its annual "Know Your Bank Week" observance this year with "Pennsylvania Week" during October 16-22, when significant recognition will be given to both occasions by Commonwealth bankers. Donald P. Horsey, FBA President and head of First National Bank, Conshohocken, said the combined celebration will be held because bankers desired to participate in both events. It was felt that a desirable solution was worked out. Mr. Horsey said, under which bankers can cooperate with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in promoting "Pennsylvania Week" and at the same time give the public an equally good opportunity of becoming better acquainted with its banking institutions. The slogan for the observance will be "Know Your Bank Better During Pennsylvania Week." FBA members, who comprise the largest banking association in the world, will distribute literature and publicity in which will be outlined the banker's role in helping to make Pennsylvania one of the country's leading states. While the celebration will be held throughout the week, many banks throughout Pennsylvania will hold open house Wednesday, October 18, when visitors will be taken through the institutions. Special tours will be conducted for service clubs and school children. Industrial displays will be arranged in many bank lobbies, and demonstrations of modern banking operations will be given in various institutions. Hanging the FBA's "Know Your Bank Week" Committee is John D. Bainer, president of Merchants' National Bank and Trust Company, Meadville.

Korean Rebuilding Problems Are Washington's New Worry

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Arthur C. Bunce, head of the Marshall Plan mission in Korea, has returned to Washington for planning conferences on future Economic Cooperation Administration aid to that war-torn country. The problem of rebuilding the Korean economy after the shooting stops is already concerning Washington.

Dr. Bunce brought with him to Washington the latest first-hand information on the condition of the civilian population in the little Pusan beachhead now defended by U. S. and South Korean troops. It is an area roughly the same size as Delaware, a little over 2000 square miles. But whereas the 1950 population of Delaware is 216,000, the normal population of the Pusan beachhead area is perhaps 3 million, or 10 times as great.

On top of this 3 million, however, another 3 million refugees have piled into the area. Add a minimum of 50,000 U. S. troops for good measure. Then bring in say 1000 trucks, tanks, jeeps and other transport and have them start tearing back and forth on the stone and gravel roads that wind and twist over, around, up and down mountains that sometimes reach a height of 3000 feet.

That gives you a rough idea of conditions. The most amazing thing about all this confusion, says Dr. Bunce, is that so far there has not been one act of sabotage reported.

In any other country than Korea and with any other people than Koreans, the problem of over 6 million people in an area the size of the Pusan beachhead would be serious. Most of the refugees have doubled up with other families. There are few refugee camps.

Food requirements are low and so far have been met by borrowing food from Army stocks in Japan. Give the average Korean a "hop" or handful of rice, a fish and a few vegetables and a little fruit and he can get by.

THE day before Dr. Bunce flew back to Washington he met with the Korean cabinet—then still in Taegu. They discussed the problems of food relief, the refugees, inflation and reconstruction.

All these problems will become more acute as soon as U. S. and South Korean troops start pushing back the North Koreans. This is now a race for the rice harvest in southwestern Korea's farm belt. If the North Koreans get the crop, it means a bigger food deficit for South Korea.

Assuming that the North Koreans will get or destroy the southern rice crop, South Korea will need about $50 million worth of food in the coming year. The present plan is to ask the United Nations to meet this requirement. Siam has already offered a big rice shipment.

By having the United Nations take care of the food and relief problem, U. S. ECA funds can be conserved for reconstruction, which was the original Marshall Plan purpose. Strangely enough, while Congress has generously been appropriating billions of dollars for the military effort in Korea, it has economized on rehabilitation for the Korean people. The President's original request for $100 million Marshall Plan funds for this fiscal year in Korea has been cut back to $81 million.

Present plans are to have reconstruction work follow closely behind the advancing armies. The housing problem will not be too difficult as most Korean houses are mud and straw walls with thatched roof. Repair of roads and electric light and power systems will have high priority, so as to get trade moving and the wheels rolling in shops and factories. Most of the electrical equipment will come from Japan.

Oil refinery, fertilizer, textile mill and other industrial equipment now being bombed out of Japanese make and will also have to be replaced. But what the cost will be no one yet knows.

Declares Wreck Is Symbol of Sacrifice

Harrisburg, Sept. 12.—(P)—Gov. James H. Duff says the time has come "to make some important distinctions on constitutional rights" to guard against "internal enemies of this country."

"Of my own knowledge I know of sabotage, which I am not permitted to disclose, that has taken place x x x since the opening of the Korean war," the governor said last night.

Duff spoke in a radio address delivered here after he cancelled an appearance at Oil City, where he was to open officially his campaign for election as U. S. senator. He called off the trip because of the 28th Division train wreck.

"The tragedy of the Pennsylvania troops is merely a symbol of the kind of sacrifice that must be necessary on a vast scale if we are to carry the torch of freedom in today's world," he continued.

"We must no longer permit those who desire to destroy the United States to claim the right to do so by standing on the very constitution which it is their purpose to destroy."

"The day has gone for business as usual, for politics as usual, and for government as usual."

Hurricane Whistles Out To Sea Today

Boston, Sept. 12.—(P)—A powerful Atlantic hurricane whistled out to sea early today after brushing the New England coast with winds up to 70 miles an hour.

The blow smashed small boats at moorings, endangered coastal shipping, snapped power lines and toppled trees before it turned seaward 80 miles east of Nantucket Island, off the Massachusetts coast.

Mountainous seas battered beaches, smashing over seawalls in some sections. Property damage, however, was not extensive.

"One fishing vessel was reported in trouble off the Massachusetts coast and another made port at Provincetown after sending out a distress call."

after the initial report, newspaper and radio station telephones were flooded by calls from anxious relatives.

Hundreds went to their places of worship to kneel in prayer. Others gathered on street corners, seeking some word of encouragement.

Gradually throughout the day, the grim facts trickled in. The families of the victims received their official notifications from the army. Some miners who had gone down into the coal shafts before hearing of the crash did not learn until they returned to the surface that they had lost brothers or sons.

Mayor Luther W. Kniffen of Wilkes-Barre announced a week-long period of general mourning.

Governor James H. Duff ordered flags flown at half mast over state buildings.

In acknowledging his introduction Mr. Laffey paid tribute to the plant nurses, reminding of the many lives they save by eliminating infection. His talk emphasized the importance of safety in preparedness, and something that should be practiced inside and outside the plant. He related many experiences to emphasize the important part safety men play in production. He paid a glowing compliment to the representatives of sportsmen's groups in attendance, saying he appreciated their taking time out to come to the gathering. Industrial safety, school safety, safety in the home and safety on the highways were listed as paramount in the program for his listeners.

Mr. Brainard, secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council, discussed briefly the Green Pennant program in the schools, and complimented Sgt. James Vaughn, of the local State Police, for the work he is doing along this line. He also praised Burgess Crosssett for what he has been doing through the trucking industry to promote safety on the highways.

Mr. Chestnut was the last speaker. He opened his talk by reminding that safety is important not only from a humanitarian standpoint, but also for the economic phase involved. He said the prevention of injuries from industrial accidents is important and that progress made in safety shows workmen are cognizant of the existing dangers. Mr. Chestnut punctuated his remarks with frequent criticisms of high officials in Washington. He concluded by saying that he was sure that the conference would accomplish much good in a district that already has an enviable record for industrial safety.

Engineer Reports Benefits Would Not Justify Control

In 1938 and differences concerning it have existed ever since.

Col. Pence wrote this about the dam:

"The Allegheny river flood control reservoir x x x if constructed at the proposed site about 10 miles upstream from Warren would provide essentially complete flood protection for the borough against floods appreciably larger than those of record at Warren, and a high degree of protection against possible greater floods."

Persons may express their views on Col. Pence's report up to Oct. 20 to the board of engineers for River and Harbors here.

A review of the report is scheduled to be made public Sept. 20. The detailed report itself will be available for inspection at Col. Pence's office or in the office of the District Engineer, Pittsburgh.

battalion—1,000 men—spent most of Tuesday afternoon in foxholes there.

Allied big guns and warplanes, striking earlier against this barrage, had counted a heavy toll of the booming Red artillery.

Such an artillery barrage usually is the prelude to an attack.

Far to the east, in the wild hill sector somewhere west of Pohang Port, a secret United Nations task force led by a famous West Point football star who cannot be named yet struck swiftly to trap Red troops in a corridor deep within Allied lines.

South Korean forces already had sealed the northern entrance. The task force, striking close to the southern gate, punched two and one-half miles in bitter fighting against two Red battalions.

On the southwest front, counter-attacking 25th Division Americans recaptured a commanding ridge four miles south of the confluence of the Nam and Nakdong rivers in a bitter fight against numerically superior Reds. The Communists had hurled three assault waves and won the peak Monday night.

The weary Americans launched their counterattack before dawn. The hill commands one of the best crossing points along the Nam.

United Nations planes, in close support of ground troops, flew a record number of sorties. By midnight Monday, they had gone out in 683 flights.

South Korean forces who drove nine miles east from Yongchon in two days had established a firm line three to four miles north of the Yongchon-Kyongju highway.

General MacArthur's Tuesday communique said 581 Red Koreans were captured Monday for the "biggest one-day total" of the war.

by acceptance of royalties from this one well, the drilling provisions as to the remainder of the property were waived. For each well drilled, the lessee was to retain five acres and forfeit the undeveloped portion of the leased property.

The Court held that since the royalty was accepted from one well as provided for in the lease, that it did not necessarily follow that the drilling requirements for the undeveloped portion of the property were waived.

Judge Wade added that in the absence of specific drilling requirements, that the development of the property still remains with the lessee, who has financial responsibility in that development.

Mr. and Mrs. Scilly were represented by Attorney R. Pierson Eaton; and Brammer was represented by Attorneys William Glassman and W. Scott Calderwood.

Taken before meals it works with your food, expels the gas, and thus you get the fullest good out of your meals. It contains Ten Great Herbs, plus vitamin E and iron. Besides relieving gas, it also enriches the blood (with iron) and makes stronger nerves (with vitamin B). Miserable people soon feel better all over. So don't go on suffering! ## MR. AND MRS. THEODORE FAUST

A garden setting of ferns and white gladioli in North Warren Presbyterian church, lighted by white tapers in candelabra graced with ivy, was the scene for the marriage of Joan Nicholson, daughter of Mrs. Alice Nicholson, North Warren, to Theodore Faust, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Faust, Sugar Grove.

Dr. A. B. McCormick, Warren, great-uncle of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony, which was followed by a reception at the YWCA.

Given in marriage by her brother, John Nicholson, USN, Cherry Point, N. C., the bride wore a princess style gown of net over white satin, embellished with Chantilly lace, her full skirt terminating in a chapel train. An heirloom brooch, the gift of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Alice Blomquist, was worn at the portrait neckline, and her veil of silk tulle fell from a crown of matching lace and clusters of orange blossoms. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Rachel Blomquist, cousin of the bride and her honor attendant, was gowned in urquoise satin, colonial style. Bridesmaids were June Anne of Detroit, Mich., Barbara and Nancy Blomquist, all cousins of the bride, and Betty Faust, Jamestown, sister of the bridegroom. They wore colonial gowns of pink and blue satin and carried miniature baskets of pastel garden flowers which matched head bands. Susan Nicholson, as her

Players' Club Is Preparing For A New Season

More than 700 letters have been sent to members of Warren Players' Club in preparation for the new season's activities, the communications including renewal applications for season memberships in the community dramatics club.

Each member is urged to invite new members to join Players, as either associate or active members, and all newcomers to the town are extended a cordial invitation to join, to take part in the plays or in their staging. Applications for membership are available to all interested, according to Monty McClure, who is serving as this season's membership chairman.

This year's first production will be a Noel Coward comedy, "Hay Fever." The director will be Richard Rapp, who will be remembered for his fine coaching of "The Male Animal," initial play last season. Assisting him as program director will be Helen Morrow, experienced in both acting and production.

Both new and old members, as well as new residents who may be interested are asked to come out for readings, the second session of which will be held at the Woman's Club auditorium at eight o'clock this evening.

Opening of School Grid Season Finds Upsets Numerous

Warren football fans may find it comforting to hear that the local Dragons were not the only team in the state that found its opening game of the season a sad one when they read the following scholastic round up of week-end games.

Harrisburg—Many of Pennsylvania's traditionally top schoolboy football teams henceforth will refer to the night of Sept. 8, 1950 as "Black Friday."

For that was the date when a host of the highly-touted eleven suffered defeat at the hands of so-called "weak sisters." More upsets were recorded last week-end than on any opening date in recent history.

Biggest of the Titans to fall was New Castle, WPAL Class AA kingpin for the past two years. The Red Hurricane saw its bid for a second straight unbeaten season come to an end when Carick High of Allegheny county invaded and won a 14-7 victory.

Minersville, eastern conference playoff champion last season, lost another one-touchdown game to Cass Township, 12-6, for the first time in the history of the rivalry. It was the same story in the west. German township bowled over Johnstown, one of the state's strong independents, by a 19-13 score. For the second straight year, Bellwood-Antis upset favored Tyrone, 13-12. Last year the smaller school ended Tyrone's victory skid of 29 games.

Other notable reversals of form took place when Derry Township dumped Bellefonte, 14-12, Huntingdon took Conemaugh, 21-0, and Erie Academy downed Farrell, 20-12.

Bridgeville eked out a 6-0 triumph over Clark High for the WPAL Class B champions' 26th consecutive victory. California topped Centerville, 26-0 while Jersey Shore was trouncing Monticello, 25-6. Bell township rolled over East Pittsburgh, 29-0, and Leechburg dropped Washington township, 29-6.

DuBois, last year's western conference leader, started off with a 34-9 exhibition victory over Meadville while Titusville won the annual oilfield scrap from Oil City, 21-13.

Lebanon, first Central Penn conference team to open its schedule, downed Hershey Industrial, 13-6. Bangor, unbeaten last year until its final game, lost a 14-6 decision to Lansdale.

Warren Merchants End Season, 27-9 Record

The Warren Merchants baseball team has ended another successful season with a record of 27 wins and nine defeats. Under Manager George Brady, the team won the Sunset League championship for the third straight year this season, beat National Forge for the City League championship, and had wins over such outstanding teams as Black Ash, Frewsburg, and the Westfield Moose.

by OSCAR J. FRIEND

Chapter 24

STOPPING only to make a few obligatory calls Monday morning, Logan reached Jess Plum's place before noon. He ate dinner with the mountaineer and his family. Ivy Plum served the table in silence, beaming on her honored guest with gratitude. Plum sat across from the doctor and hung on his every word like a faithful dog.

As he ate, Logan related the latest news in brief and concise fashion.

"Frank Nichols died early this morning," he finished significantly. "Ummmm," Plum murmured. "That means a murder charge on top of the robbery, eh?"

"Yes—if Matlock ever arrests Jake Holcomb. Thanks for a nice dinner, Mrs. Plum. I've got to be getting along now, Jess. I'd like to talk with you a bit before I go."

Plum followed him out to the corral. "What's on your mind, Doc?" he asked anxiously.

"Jake Holcomb," Logan told him. "Also, John Naylor. Naylor has moved his land company over to Friole Flats. I think Naylor's mixed up in this outlaying. Have you heard any rumor or talk among the mountain men, Jess?"

"No, not yet." He fixed his black eyes on the doctor's face.

"I know this is a tall order, Jess, but I've got to find out. I'm after Holcomb, but I'm deeply interested in Naylor. He's one of the men who killed my father."

The mountaineer whistled softly. "Tod Ramsey's the boy to find out for ye. He's Buckner's nephew from Oregon, a stranger in these parts. I'll send him to nose around Friole Flats. Ye'll be riding back this way later, Doc?"

"Not today. I've a number of calls to make. Ed Calkins' wife salivated all three children, and I have to get over there this afternoon. I'll be back in Gila City by night."

"Ye'll hear from me tonight," Plum promised simply.

Logan mounted his horse and rode away. He put in a strenuous afternoon, and it was considerably after dark when he turned onto the main trail close to town and urged his weary horse past the thickening dwellings with their twinkling window lights bespeaking cheer and warmth within.

It was nearly eight o'clock when he rode up to Judge Steele's white picket fence and dismounted. To his surprise he found a number of saddle horses lining the fence. The house was ablaze with lights. There was a subdued roar from over on the main street, and horsemen were galloping here and there in excitement. In alarm Logan hastened up the walk.

"Hawkins met him at the door."

"Hello, Doc," the hardware dealer greeted, squinting. "We was wonderin' if you'd get back in time."

"In time for what?"

"Hell popped here in town this afternoon. Barton just got home, too. Go right on in the parlor. We're havin' a masin'!"

IN THE judge's parlor Logan found fully half the members of the Committee of Justice assembled. At one side Henry Barton stood talking with the judge and his two daughters. The room was a bedlam of conversation and argument. The uproar died down somewhat at the appearance of the doctor, and Barton came swiftly to greet him.

"Hello, son. Looks like I came home to a mess. Where's Tom?"

Logan frowned, and a nagging little worry leaped to the front of his mind. "Hasn't shown up yet? I haven't seen him since Saturday night. What's happened?"

"The town's been held up. Judge Steele will tell you."

The doctor looked quickly at the old jurist.

"That's right," Judge Steele said. "It happened about four o'clock this afternoon—the bank, the hotel, and the Texas Tommy. There must have been between fifteen and twenty men in on the triple robbery. It took the town by surprise."

"How did it happen? Where was everybody?"

"Nobody saw a large band of men until it was over," the judge explained. "It was a slick job, beating the stage robbery all hollow. The bandits must have drifted into Gila City separately and then gathered according to plan at the three points. At four o'clock a pair of strangers got into a heated argument in front of the hotel. This turned into a gunfight."

They emptied their six-shooters at each other. Neither was hit. Then they engaged in a knife fight in the middle of the street. It drew all the loiterers into a crowd of spectators.

"Where was the sheriff?"

"In his office taking a nap," the judge said shortly. "Anyway, as I gathered from later inquiry at this point several masked men materialized in the hotel lobby and proceeded to hold up the place. The same thing happened at the Texas Tommy. They knew where the main supply of cash was kept in each house the disposition of guards, and all that."

"At the same time five more men were holding up the bank. Just about the time the hotel and Overstreet's place was gutted, the iron safe in the bank was blown up with dynamite. This explosion drew the attention of the crowd. People ran towards the bank building. And the hotel and Texas Tommy bandits promptly made their escape almost unnoticed. The two knife fighters sheathed their weapons and disappeared."

"The bandits made off down the side street and met another pair of confederates with horses for them all. They rode down the alley and picked up the others at the back door of the bank. All of them made off towards the south before any sort of resistance could be organized—before most folks knew exactly what had happened."

Farnsworth took up the recital. "The bank was closed, but two clerks and I were there. The bandits broke in the back door as cool as you please and tied us up. We were taken completely by surprise. Comparison of notes indicated that everything was timed to the second. My safe was blown up the last thing to serve as a counter-attraction to let the other bandits get away from the hotel and the Texas Tommy. Not a dozen shots were fired during the entire raid, and these only by the two street fighters. In the absence of Tom Grigsby I took it on myself to call a committee meeting. Matlock is wasting his time inquiring around the hotel and the Texas Tommy, but I've gathered the pertinent facts. Luckily, Henry here, came in on the stage in time to help."

LARCENY LOU'S TRAP CATCHES OPPONENTS

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

Most good players can read the meaning of the plays made by their opponents. The real expert goes one step farther. He reads the meaning of the plays that his opponents fail to make!

This is a difficult point to explain, but one example is worth a hundred explanations. Let us examine a hand recently played by Larceny Lou.

The bidding was reasonable enough. Against a spade opening lead, West would have been down only one at four hearts. North was afraid that his vulnerable opponents could actually make four hearts. His bid of four spades, which he knew could not be backed by a partner, was in the nature of an insurance policy. He preferred to take a small loss rather than risk a big one.

West opened the device of diamonds and Larceny Lou put up dummy's queen without hesitation. East very nearly made the mistake of playing the king of diamonds. He caught himself just in time and played a low diamond.

His first trap having failed, Lou led a trump over dummy while cooking up his next little plot. West took the ace of spades and returned a trump.

At this point Lou realized that East had the singleton king of hearts.

West's bidding made it clear that he had either six or seven hearts. Why had he not led the suit? His opening lead had obviously been East held the singleton king of hearts, Lou was now able to plan a new swindle.

Lou drew the rest of West's trumps, cashed the ace of diamonds and the top clubs, ruffed a club in dummy, and ruffed dummy's last diamond in his own hand. The stage was now set, and Lou nonchalantly led a low heart from his own hand.

By this time West was down to four cards, all of them hearts. Seeing a low heart led from the South hand towards dummy's ten, West played the jack. As Lou had foreseen, this trick was won by East's blank king.

Now East had to return a suit that allowed dummy to ruff with South discarded a heart loser. Since this held the loss in hearts to only two tricks, Lou succeeded in making his contract.

It is important to note that Lou had to lead the hearts eventually from his own hand. If hearts were led from the dummy, East would play his king, and West would have a chance to overtake with his ace. West would then cash the queen and jack of hearts, setting the contract.

for
BETTER LIGHTING

- Keep reflector bowls, fixtures and bulbs clean.
- Use right size bulbs to give enough light for visual tasks.
- Avoid harmful glare by shading bulbs and using Certified lamps.

for health, for happiness

Good lighting helps to make a house a happier home. It plays up the beauty and good taste of your furnishings. But good lighting is not just for cheer. It is a necessity in preventing eye strain, nervousness and fatigue. So much depends on your eyes... you should care for them well, for they have to last a lifetime.

The cost of good lighting is small. It's a comfort and convenience... a protection and an economy... that every family can afford.

With the coming of longer evenings, make every room a better "living room". Make housework and homework easier... make social evenings more enjoyable. Just follow Reddy's simple rules for better lighting.

Hugh E. Major, shipper at Pennsylvania Wire Rope Corporation, Williamsport, Pa.

Warehouse Man

"Hughie" Major's job is to check shipments of wire rope leaving his company's warehouse in Williamsport, Pa. A substantial quantity of this rope goes to Bell Telephone... to be used, among other purposes, for supporting telephone poles.

We can't tell you how many Pennsylvania men and women, like Hugh Major, depend in part on Bell Telephone purchases for their work and wages. But we do know that last year alone Bell Telephone made purchases from some 2,000 companies in more than 200 Pennsylvania communities.

Any way you look at it, the successful operation of the telephone business means a great deal to the steady employment of a great many Pennsylvanians, both in and out of the telephone industry.
